History of the Council of State Court Judges

In 1966, Judge J. Taylor Phillips approached his Bibb County local delegation of legislators and proposed that the City Court of Macon change its name to the State Court of Bibb County. Since jurisdiction was limited, much like that of today's state courts, it seemed more appropriate to call it a "state court." On September 1, 1966 the City Court of Macon became the first State Court in Georgia. Ga. Laws 1966, p. 3302.

By 1968 many of the courts had begun to follow Judge Phillips' leadership by changing their name from "City Court" to "State Court". The State Court of Houston County was created on April 4, 1967 and the State Court of Coffee County was created April 28, 1969.

Judge Grady C. Pittard, Jr. of the Civil – Criminal Court of Clarke County and Judge Phillips realized the need to create an association of judges for this emerging class of courts and in 1967 formed the Trial Judges and Solicitors Association of Georgia. Judge Grady C. Pittard served as the Associations first president from 1967 – 1968 and Judge J. Taylor Phillips served as the Associations second president from 1968 – 1969.

By 1970, most "City Courts" had changed their names to "State Courts". Ga. Laws 1970, p. 679.

In 1980 the Solicitors decided that they wished to create their own Association and split from the group. In 1980 a new association of state court judges evolved from the Trial Judges and Solicitors Association becoming the State Court Judges of Georgia. (Later becoming the Council of State Court Judges.)

In order to receive state funds for purposes of promoting training seminars to the judges and to hire an Executive Director to manage the business of the association; in 1988 the legislature created the Council of State Court Judges by enacting Act 1174 of the Georgia General Assembly, Ga. Laws 1988, p. 461, codifying it as O.C.G.A. § 15-7-26. This Act became law on March 28, 1988. In 2002, the makeup of the Executive Committee of the Council was amended to allow the composition of the officers to fall under the constitution and bylaws rather than statute. Ga. Laws 2002, p. 1018.
